

ITALY PUTS OFF PARLIAMENT AS ALL AWAIT WAR

Royal Decree Postpones Meeting of Senate and Chamber Till May 20.

UNION WITH ALLIES EXPECTED SOON

Germans and Austrians Rush to Leave — Press Says Only Miracle Will Avert Conflict.

Rome, May 7.—The date for the convening of the Senate and the Chamber of Deputies has been postponed by royal decree until May 20. The original date set for the opening of Parliament was May 12.

The situation is rapidly becoming tense. The press considers that a miracle now can keep Italy out of the war. Rome is waiting in feverish anxiety, as it is known that Germany is making her last effort with Austria. No one hopes for any result from this desperate attempt, and the breaking of the thread still holding Italy to the central empires is expected at any minute.

The Austrian Ambassador is reported to have handed to Foreign Minister Sonnino a conference yesterday afternoon the Vienna Cabinet's final proposal to Italy containing the extreme concessions the dual monarchy is willing to make.

Teutons Lose Confidence.

While the utmost secrecy is observed regarding these concessions, Austrians and Germans in Rome have lost confidence in a favorable outcome of the negotiations. The receipt of a dispatch from Berlin the German school in this city suddenly was closed yesterday afternoon. The teachers, with a number of German newspaper correspondents and several German families, left almost immediately for Germany.

It is reported that the Vatican has received all German and Austrian ecclesiastical and theological students to leave Rome immediately.

Germany's ultimatum to Austria expressed the opinion that the action of the government in postponing the meeting of Parliament indicated that a rupture of negotiations with Austria was not only certain, but imminent, and the belief is expressed in diplomatic circles that the postponement of the date for convening Parliament, desires to confront Parliament with an accomplished fact.

King Victor Emmanuel as early as 8 o'clock this morning.

King Victor Emmanuel as early as 8 o'clock this morning, was in conference with the Minister of War, General Sonnino, and an hour later Premier Salandra and Foreign Minister Sonnino went into consultation. Shortly afterward the secretary of the German Ambassador, Prince von Buelow, arrived with a letter of the nature of which has not been disclosed.

Venezelos Recalled Suddenly to Athens

Paris, May 7.—A special dispatch from Rome says that former Premier Venezelos, who is now at Athens, has been recalled suddenly to Athens in view of events which are impending.

M. Venezelos and his cabinet resigned when King Constantine declined to accept his recommendation that Greece enter the war on the side of the Allies. He excused himself voluntarily from his country during a question of honor, declaring he would not return until he had been vindicated.

WOMEN AVOID LUSITANIA TOPIC

Mrs. Harriot Stanton Blatch Refuses to Discuss Influence for Peace of Liner's Loss.

Syracuse, May 7.—Whatever effect the torpedoing of the Lusitania will have on international peace efforts must be decided by Miss Jane Addams and the other women who have gone abroad, declared Mrs. Harriot Stanton Blatch tonight.

"All international peace efforts have been made by Miss Addams and others with her. Those who have stayed at home should do nothing to hamper the work they are carrying on by talking about what effect this or that will have."

Mrs. Blatch came to Syracuse this evening to attend the banquet given by the Central New York branch of the Women's Political Union in honor of Mrs. Charles S. Whitman at the Onondaga.

Mrs. Whitman refused to discuss the sinking of the liner in any way. "I am a domestic woman," she said, "and I am not interested in international problems."

Mrs. Frederick R. Hazard, vice-president of the New York State Association of Women, said that the sinking of the liner was a tragedy, but it was not a political event. It was a tragedy which should be remembered, but it should not be used as a political argument.

"The sinking of the liner is a tragedy," she said, "but it is not a political event. It is a tragedy which should be remembered, but it should not be used as a political argument."

British Avoid Great Loss By Retreat Near Ypres

Will Irwin Says Even Abandonment of Town Itself Would Give Germans Only Advantage of Holding Junk Heap.

By WILL IRWIN.
(Copyright, 1915, by The New York Tribune.)

Northern France (name of town censored), May 6.—The British retreat to straighten their line beyond Ypres probably was contemplated ever since the episode of the poison gas attack on the French, by which the Germans, while they failed to break through, did make a new dip in the allied line.

The salient at Ypres always has been dangerous. Formerly it made a semi-circular loop, with Ypres a little above the center. After this successful movement of the Germans it took the shape of the eye in a hook and eye. From the narrow shank the Germans could do much damage. It became with the British a question between sacrificing much territory to straighten the line at the expense of the Germans or straightening the line at their own expense and at a loss of some ground, but without loss of life.

Even if Ypres is finally abandoned it will mean only the abandonment of a piece of ground, since the city is now only a junk heap. The German communications asserting that the British are retreating in disorder and with heavy losses are inventions. Any serious action with great casualties is felt at once at the bases in the rush of wounded. During the days in which the British made their retirement there was almost a lull in the new cases at the base hospitals.

The second battle at Ypres is finished, although a third and heavier battle may follow. The Germans have gained some ground, of no special strategic importance, but the drive for Calais—if that was what they intended—has been checked again. It is possible this was only a defensive attack aimed to convince the Allies of the German attempt to break the German line.

The British have been successful in their retreat. They have held the line at Ypres, and the Germans have been unable to break through. The British have been successful in their retreat. They have held the line at Ypres, and the Germans have been unable to break through.

RUSSIANS, FREE OF LOW PASS, FACE NEW FOE

Southern Wing of Austro-Germans Advances on Carpathian Army.

PURSUERS REACH POINT NEAR JASLOW

Petrograd Silent on Retreat Through Galicia, While Enemies Claim Great Gains.

London, May 7.—The advance of the Austro-German armies in Galicia, according to detailed official reports, Berlin and Vienna, has brought them still further eastward, until they are on a line with Jarlow, and further south their right wing is engaged with Russian columns emerging from the southern slopes of the Carpathians through Lupkow Pass.

The amount of war stores captured by the pursuing forces is claimed to be enormous, and more prisoners are said to have been taken.

The Petrograd official report, however, though characterizing the conflict as "a great battle," and referring to the desperate nature of the fighting, contains nothing to indicate that the Russians are in retreat.

Most of the Carpathian front, however, the Wisloka River, between Pilsno and Jaslo, the Vienna reports say, and strong Austrian forces in the Dukla-Rymanow district have the Carpathian army along which the Russians, in irregular columns, are retreating in a northerly and northeasterly direction, pursued by the army which opposed the advance into Hungary.

The Austro-Germans in the eastern sector of the Carpathian front, Vienna claims, are repulsing desperate Russian attacks and inflicting heavy losses.

Only a small division of the enemy on the Wisloka river holds out, the Berlin report says, and that the Teutonic allies have advanced on the right bank of the Wisloka River in the direction of Wislok and across the Jasloka.

In the direction of Mesolaborca the Russian report has to be repulsed with the bayonet six vigorous attacks and in the valley of the Lomnitsa to have gained important successes.

London, May 7.—The fighting in the Russian Baltic provinces and on the East Prussian frontier, though spirited, is apparently of a sporadic nature, from the statements contained in official reports. The Russian command in the Baltic provinces has been repulsed in the direction of the Baltic Sea.

The plan incorporated in the agreement between the Russian and the German command was to guarantee the payment of Miss Duncan's debts in three instalments, extending over a period of six months. She gives her property as security.

Most of the offers of aid that Miss Duncan has received in the last two days have had strings attached to them. Proposals for motion picture and vaudeville engagements were made, but she refused them all.
